Organization and Administrative Purpose

M. D. Anderson is directed by Texas State statutes and the University of Texas System Board of Regents to disseminate to the people of Texas information concerning the causes, occurrence, and prevention of cancer and knowledge about the treatment and rehabilitation of patients with cancer and allied diseases. In pursuit of this directive, M. D. Anderson conducts and participates in cancer educational activities for non-physician clinical education trainees, as well as other students.

Non-Physician Clinical Education (NPCE) programs focus on the development of clinical skills, abilities, knowledge, and professional competencies in a specified area of practice. The purpose of NPCE is to provide an organized and integrated educational program providing guidance to and supervision of the trainee, facilitate the trainee's professional and personal development, and ensure safe and appropriate care for patients. NPCE is the process by which experiential training is provided to residents, fellows and other specified educational trainees enabling them to acquire the skills, knowledge, and abilities that are important in the care of patients.

M. D. Anderson Cancer Center is committed to the premise that educational quality and patient care quality are interdependent. Programs are charged with the responsibility of ensuring that educational and patient care activities are pursued in such a manner that they enhance one another. A proper balance must be maintained so that a program of NPCE does not rely on trainees to meet service needs at the expense of educational objectives. Programs are likewise charged with ensuring that trainees assume progressively greater responsibility throughout the course of the training program consistent with individual growth in clinical and research experience, knowledge, and skill. This progression is to ensure that upon completion of the program the trainee is prepared to undertake professional practice in the area of specialty training.

Trainee Appointment, Responsibilities, and Completion of Training

Offers of Appointment and Reappointment

The sr. vice president for Academic Affairs makes the offer of appointment to clinical training programs at M. D. Anderson based upon the recommendation of the residency, fellowship, or other specified program director. Re-appointments for programs two years or more years in length are offered annually by the sr. vice president for Academic Affairs at the recommendation of the training program director based on performance evaluations and the trainee's readiness to advance.

Appointment is contingent upon successful completion of all educational and other requirements specified by the program. Trainees holding a license assume the responsibility for maintaining a valid authorization for patient care activities.

Trainees are required to maintain current valid documents indicating evidence of their authorization for employment in the United States, authorization to participate in a clinical training program, and to establish their identity.

To the extent possible, for multi-year programs, the trainee will be notified at least four months prior to the conclusion of a current appointment if the faculty of the program does not intend to offer reappointment for the following year to an advanced level of the program. It is also expected that the trainee will notify the program director by that same date if he or she does not plan to continue in the NPCE program after completion of the current year.

Content of Programs

NPCE training programs at M. D. Anderson are held to applicable educational standards and are approved by the sr. vice president for Academic Affairs. The program director must determine the level of responsibility accorded to each trainee. The trainee will be supervised by teaching staff in such a way that he or she assumes progressively increasing responsibility for patient care according to level of training, ability, and experience.

As applicable, trainees may be provided with opportunities for active roles in the instruction of other hospital personnel.

Responsibilities of Clinical Trainees

New clinical trainees are required to provide health information in accordance with Texas state law and current M. D. Anderson institutional policy. Clinical trainees are subject to drug testing and background check procedures as outlined in institutional policies.

M. D. Anderson is an EOE employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, age, religion, disability, or veteran status, except where such distinction is required by law. All positions at The University of Texas are security sensitive and subject to Texas Education Code 51-215, which authorizes the employer to obtain criminal history record information.

The trainee agrees to perform to the best of his or her ability the activities and responsibilities as assigned by the program director, to abide by the Rules and Regulations of the Board of Regents of The University of Texas System, the Rules and Regulations of M. D. Anderson as specified in the Handbook of Operating Procedures, and the hospitals to which assigned, and to meet those conditions outlined in this manual.

Within the scope of the training program, all educational trainees must function under the supervision of M. D. Anderson staff with appropriate clinical or other required privileges. Each training program is constructed to encourage and permit trainees to assume increasing levels of responsibility commensurate with their individual progress and experience, skill, knowledge, and judgment. Educational trainees must not attempt to provide clinical services or procedures for which they are not trained. Each educational trainee is responsible for communicating significant patient care issues to the attending faculty. Communication must be documented, as appropriate, in the patient record. Failure to function within graduated levels of responsibility or to communicate significant patient care issues may result in the removal of the educational trainee from patient care activities. The trainee must demonstrate his or her ability to assume increased responsibility as directed. This determination is the responsibility of the program director with advice from members of the teaching staff. Advancement to higher responsibility will be on the basis of an evaluation of educational trainee's readiness for advancement.

Trainees are expected to participate fully in all aspects of their training, including active participation in departmental and institutional meetings, in teaching activities as directed by the program and department, and on departmental and institutional committees as directed by the program director. Trainees are also expected to participate in the evaluation of their training programs and faculty.

Evaluation

The trainee will be formally evaluated as required by the program or at least twice a year with regard to his or her performance, knowledge, skills, satisfactory progressive scholarship, and professional growth. Evaluations will be communicated to the trainee in a timely manner. The evaluation and the trainee's response to the evaluation, if any, will be maintained in the program or department office, accessible to the trainee and other authorized personnel. For multi-year programs the program director will provide a written summary annual evaluation on each trainee verifying that the trainee has demonstrated sufficient professional ability to advance in the program. The program director will also provide a written summary final evaluation for each trainee who completes the program. The evaluation must include a review of the trainee's performance during the final period of training and should verify that the trainee has demonstrated sufficient professional ability to practice competently and independently.

It is the duty of the program director to establish a mechanism for evaluating the performance of the trainee, including written progress reports to the trainee.

Completion of Training

A certificate attesting program completion will be issued by Trainee and Alumni Affairs to clinical trainees successfully completing identifiable programs of at least 12 months in duration. Recommendations for certification are directed to the sr. vice president for Academic Affairs by the program director and must be accompanied by a report of a research project, if applicable. Before a certificate can be issued, a summary evaluation on the candidate must be on file in Trainee and Alumni Affairs.

Absence from the program for more than 4 weeks per year may impact program completion.

Separation

Clinical trainees are required to complete the institutional separation procedure at the end of their final appointment

The ID Badge is worn only by the person to whom it was issued.

Attendance

It is the policy of M. D. Anderson to ensure that trainee attendance meets their institutional program and oversight agency or Board eligibility requirements, and that required records of attendance as well as tracking mechanisms are kept at the program level.

Absence from a program for more than 4 weeks per year may impact program completion. NPCE trainees will need to discuss with their program directors the impact of time away from the training program on meeting the requirements for program completion.

Compensation

The NPCEC conducts an annual review of trainee stipends and benefits and makes recommendations for adjustment as part of the institutional budget planning process. The sr. vice president for Academic Affairs must approve proposed changes in stipends, with final approval by UT System. Approved adjustments are usually effective at the beginning of the academic year in July.

The stipends are subject to all deductions required by state and federal law and such other deductions as authorized by the trainee.

Professional Fees

As a condition of accepting a position in a clinical training program, the trainee waives all rights to fees for professional services to patients, no matter what the participation in the care of those patients may be. The professional staff supervising the trainee reserves the right to collect such fees in accordance with the rules and regulations of the institution and the medical staff and the regulations, where applicable, of third party payers.

Moonlighting

Professional patient care provided as a practitioner, mid level health care professional, or independent health care professional outside the scope of the trainees program whether internal or external is considered moonlighting. program directors may opt to permit their trainees the opportunity to engage in moonlighting. Trainees must have written permission of the program director and must report their hours worked outside the scope of the program whether internal or external.

Educational trainees participating in eligible programs may be permitted to provide and, when authorized, to bill for independent patient care at M. D. Anderson. This internal moonlighting requires approval of the program director.

Trainee Request

M. D. Anderson remains dedicated to quality patient care provided by a multidisciplinary team. M. D. Anderson also recognizes that individual trainee's strongly held values and beliefs may cause a concern or conflict with some aspect of a patient's plan of care or treatment. Trainees who have such concerns may request not to participate in those aspects of patient care. Such concerns or conflicts will be evaluated and resolved to ensure that the patient's quality of care is not compromised and, whenever possible, to respect the trainees values and beliefs.

Duty Hours and the Working Environment

It is the policy of M. D. Anderson to ensure that trainee duty hours promote an environment that provides high-quality education and safe and effective patient care while promoting the well being of clinical trainees.

The Postgraduate Physician Assistant and Pharmacy Education programs as a condition of accreditation must establish and monitor adherence to duty hours, as appropriate, as required by the accreditation body.

MDACC is committed to ensuring that trainees have adequate time off for rest. When specific work hour restrictions have been defined the program will ensure compliance with these restrictions.

Inclement Weather/Adverse or Emergency Conditions

M. D. Anderson recognizes that inclement weather or adverse conditions may occasionally be so severe that it becomes necessary to suspend normal operations. As such, formal communications and inclement weather procedures are maintained which identify emergency preparedness levels, (EPLs), personnel occupying essential positions, and requirements for reporting to work.

Evaluation

It is the policy of M. D. Anderson that the institution is in compliance with the respective agency guidelines as they relate to trainee and program evaluation. Additionally, the institution must create a formalized mechanism to monitor and ensure that the training programs establish and implement formal written criteria and processes for trainee and program evaluation. The training program's written criteria and process for trainee and program evaluation is included in the program-specific trainee handbook and is distributed at the on-set of the trainee's appointment.

It is the policy of M. D. Anderson that the institution is in compliance with respect to agency guidelines as they relate to trainee advancement.
