Goodbye 2020, Hello 2021!

by Aimee Christie, Ph.D.

Coping with a global pandemic and the need to social distance has forced us to spend more time with ourselves, to face our own strengths and weaknesses, to acknowledge our personal resilience as well as “areas for improvement.” At a global level, we are also experiencing more stress than ever before. The new year can be a time to reflect on what’s working well and ways in which we would like to grow. Let’s welcome the new year with hope, optimism, and aspirations!

Often, we realize that improving our diet, exercising more, and reducing stress are valuable changes we can make for ourselves and our families. These lifestyle factors are important for cancer risk reduction and equally important to optimize during and after cancer treatment to improve quality of life and clinical outcomes. Most importantly, the benefits of maintaining these healthy lifestyle changes can last a lifetime and improve all aspects of your life.

To make any New Year’s resolution last deep into the new year and through the whole year, start SMART! Make goals for yourself using the SMART framework: Specific, Measurable, Achievable, Relevant, Time-limited. For example, a SMART goal for healthy eating may be: Eat 3 servings of vegetables and 2 servings of fruit every day for the next month. Start slow with baby steps; early success is key for motivation! Build on those changes over time. Ask yourself, “is this change something I can maintain over my lifetime?” This helps to turn these New Year resolutions into lifelong habits.

Here are some additional tips to help you succeed.

- Add accountability: Check in with a spouse, friend, support group, or medical provider about your progress.
- Monitor your progress: Record the data! Be a scientist and track whether you’re meeting your goals. Use the feedback to adjust your goals to be more realistic.
- Reward your successes: Be your own cheerleader and find ways to congratulate yourself for meeting your goals.
- Forgive yourself: Small set-backs, or a “bad” day, are just an opportunity to reflect on what did not work and set up your tomorrow for more success.

Finally, as you learn how to work towards new goals and a healthier lifestyle, remember to practice self-compassion. Be kind to yourself, be in the present moment, and remember that you’re not alone. Let’s grow together. Here’s to a better 2021!

Roasted Brussel Sprouts with Balsamic Vinaigrette

*Dietitian’s Note: As we enter the new year there is a lot of focus and energy devoted to making lifestyle change especially regarding diet. This cruciferous vegetable packs anti-cancer properties and is a great addition to meal preps.

Preparation Time: 30 minutes
Serves: 4

Ingredients:

- 2 cups of raw whole Brussel Sprouts
- 1-2 tablespoons of grapeseed oil or oil of choice
- 1-2 teaspoons minced garlic
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper

Vinaigrette

- 2 Tablespoons olive oil
- 2 Tablespoons balsamic vinegar
- 1 Tablespoon honey

Instructions:

1. Slice Brussel sprouts in quarters
2. Add Brussel sprouts to bowl and add oil, garlic, salt and pepper. Mix ingredients together
3. Place Brussel sprouts on sheet pan. Bake on 400 degrees for 22 minutes.
4. In a small bowl add vinaigrette ingredients and mix well.
5. Once Brussel sprouts are done, place in dish and drizzle with vinaigrette.
