I. POLICY
Any IRB member must disclose a conflicting interest in a project to the IRB Chair, IRB Meeting Coordinator or the IRB Supervisor, and must leave the room during the discussion of and voting on a project, except if the IRB member is providing information at the IRB’s request.

II. DEFINITION OF CONFLICTING INTEREST
A conflicting interest of an IRB member (or consultant) generally includes the following. The aggregate interest of the member (or consultant) and his/her immediate family is considered.

1) Supervision of a project (IRB member is listed as a Principal Investigator or Co-Principal Investigator on the project);
2) IRB Member provides direct supervision to any Principal Investigator or Co-Principal Investigator;
3) Financial Interest when it reaches the level of a Financial Conflict of Interest (FCOI) as defined in “Conflict of Interest Policy for Faculty, Trainees, Faculty Supervisors & Institutional Decision Makers ACA0001” as greater than $25,000. “Financial Interest Related to the Research” means anything of monetary value, whether or not the value is readily ascertainable in the sponsor, product or service being tested.
4) Personal relationship with investigator (IRB member has an immediate family relationship or other close personal relationship with the investigator). "Immediate Family” means individuals related by kinship, adoption (including certified foster children), or marriage who are living in the same household with individuals covered by this policy, and minor children of the individuals covered by this policy who are not living in the same household.
5) Fiduciary relationship to sponsor (IRB member serves as an executive to a company sponsoring the research or serves on the company’s board of directors);
6) Other nonfinancial interests that may be conflicting interests, such as if (a) the IRB member has an interest that he/she believes conflicts with the member’s ability to review a project objectively; or
   (b) the IRB member is in direct competition with the investigator for limited resources, funding, sponsorship, or research subjects, or the IRB member is considered a personal or professional adversary of the investigators (for (b), the IRB member must disclose the circumstances to the IRB Chair, IRB Meeting Coordinator or IRB Supervisor for a determination of whether a conflicting interest exists).
7) Involvement of the IRB member, consultant, or their immediate family in the design, conduct, or reporting of the research.
8) Any other reason for which the IRB member believes he or she has a conflicting interest with the research.

III. PROCEDURES FOR PROTOCOL REVIEW AND ATTENDANCE AT THE IRB MEETING
1) IRB members should review the list of projects for an upcoming meeting with the conflicts issue in mind and should disclose a conflicting interest as soon as possible to the IRB Chair, IRB Meeting Coordinator or IRB Supervisor. An IRB member with a conflicting interest in a project should not accept that project for review, and should return it to the IRB office for reassignment to another IRB reviewer. If the IRB’s non-scientific member has a conflicting interest, the IRB Manager will reassign the project to another IRB for review.

2) If an IRB member recognizes a conflicting interest in a project at the IRB meeting, the IRB member must inform the IRB Chair of the conflicting interest and leave the room during the discussion of and vote on the project.

3) If other IRB members need to request information about the project from the IRB member with the conflicting interest, the IRB member may remain in the room during the presentation of the project. The IRB member must then leave the room during the IRB’s discussion and vote.

4) IRB staff will record in the minutes a recusal based on a conflicting interest. The IRB member will not be counted as part of the quorum for the project. (Should the quorum fail, the IRB may not take further action or vote on the project.)

Note: An abstention may be acknowledged at any time when an IRB member has any other concerns that in his or her own judgment warrant abstaining from review, deliberation, and voting on a project.
