FOCUS

This conference expects to provide current information on identifying oncologic emergencies, implementing best practices when treating cancer patients with emergencies, addressing the significance of palliative care in the patients presenting to the emergency department regarding symptom and pain management, discussing toxicities associated with standard cancer therapy and emerging novel cancer modalities, as well as addressing other topics that are critical to supporting and treating cancer patients. Our conference aims to continue to fill knowledge gaps by providing information in an interactive forum that in turn enhances medical decision-making by healthcare providers.

EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES

After attending the conference, participants should be able to:

- Identify emergent medical conditions (e.g. adverse events, symptoms, pain, etc.) that occur in cancer patients and demonstrate best practices to maximize quality of care within an emergency medicine environment (Knowledge, Competence, Performance, Patient Outcomes);
- Provide supportive treatment pathways for cancer patients that experience complex symptoms that result in renal dysfunction, cardiac toxicities, tumor bleeding, pulmonary effusion, neutropenic fever, and acute infections (Knowledge, Competence, Performance, Patient Outcomes);
- Continue to integrate palliative care skills into the framework of emergency medicine to patients with cancer (Knowledge, Competence);
- Utilize the expertise of the oncologic emergency medicine clinicians and pharmacists to provide a better understanding of supportive care and pain management drugs in combination with chemotherapies (Knowledge, Competence, Performance, Patient Outcomes);

- Identify and assess complications of stem cell transplant, especially graft vs. host disease (Knowledge).

EDUCATIONAL METHODS

Lecture/Didactic – Case Study – Poster Session – Question and Answer Sessions – Poster Presentations – Panel Discussions – Patient Experience

TARGET AUDIENCE

This conference should be of value to emergency medicine clinicians, faculty, trainees, researchers, research staff, mid-level providers, medical students, and other healthcare professionals.

EVALUATION

A course evaluation form will provide participants with the opportunity to comment on the value of the program content to their practice decisions, performance improvement activities, or possible impact on patient health status. Participants will also have the opportunity to comment on any perceived commercial bias in the presentations as well as to identify future educational topics.

CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

DEADLINE FOR ABSTRACT SUBMISSION IS FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 2018.

The 2018 Oncologic Emergency Medicine Conference invites the submission of abstracts regarding clinical care or best practices in an emergency care setting. The goal is to provide the audience an opportunity to collaborate and stimulate discussions specifically on how an emergency center delivers quality patient care whether in an academic, hospital or community based setting. The type of research can be qualitative or quantitative and have a focus in public health, health services, epidemiology, or public policy.

Ideally there should be a focus on the care of the cancer patient in an emergency room setting but work in areas commonly encountered in oncological patients such as sepsis, pain, electrolyte imbalances, symptom management, and palliative care measures are encouraged.

Authors may submit abstracts of completed work, work in progress, or work elsewhere within the past 12 months.

ABSTRACT SUBMISSION INSTRUCTIONS:

Abstracts will only be accepted electronically and should be uploaded to:

The deadline for receipt of abstracts is 11:59 PM CST on Friday, January 5, 2018. Notification of acceptance for poster presentations will be acknowledged by e-mail by Friday, January 12, 2018.

Abstract Formatting Instructions:

Limit abstracts to one page, type in 12-point Times New Roman font, single spaced with one-inch margins, and left justified. Organize the abstract into: Background, Methods, Results, and Conclusions. Define all abbreviations. Include the abstract title, full names, and institutional affiliations of all authors, and e-mail address of the corresponding author at the top of the abstract. Underline the name of the presenting author. Abstracts must not contain copyrighted material unless permission has been obtained by the author/publisher.
