

How to Apply

Applications are accepted exclusively through the Electronic Residency Application Services \(ERAS\) of the Association of American Medical Colleges. All regular residency program positions are filled through participation in the National Resident Matching Program.

Applications must be completed and submitted by October 21. After a favorable review, the committee requests a personal interview with the prospective trainee. Interviews are given by invitation only and are scheduled in one of four interview sessions. The Training Committee interviews up to eight candidates each week on selected Fridays in December and January.

Our program was one of the signatories of the red journal commentary, 'Taking "the Game" Out of the Match: A Simple Proposal.'

1. We are committed to the letter and the spirit of NRMP rules.
2. We will not solicit any information from applicants on how high we are on their rank list. We strongly discourage applicants from volunteering such information. We will not answer emails, letters or thank-you notes. Please understand that thank-you notes are not necessary.
3. We will not directly or indirectly divulge to applicants their position on the rank list. Our program director, chair and faculty will refrain from post-interview communication.
4. After the interview day, applicants desiring more information about our program will be directed to the program coordinator.
5. Applicants may report potential violations of match policies or principles to this online suggestion box: <https://www.suggestionox.com/r/ncmMin>

References

Wu, A. J., Vapiwala, N., Chmura, S. J., Das, P., Decker, R. H., Terezakis, S. A., & Zietman, A. L. (2015). Taking "the Game" Out of The Match: A Simple Proposal. International journal of radiation oncology, biology, physics, 93(5), 945–948. <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.ijrobp.2015.09.039>